HIGH POINT

In a city which has tripled in population during the last quarter century there must be both the will and determination to flourish and advance! Both facts are true of High Point, North Carolina. It has an area of 9.75 square miles—street mileage 142 with 71 miles hard surfaced.

DERIVATION OF NAME: Highest point on Southern Railway between Goldsboro, N. C., and Charlotte, N. C.

High Point does offer incentives both as a manufacturing and a distribution location. There is a basic reality that people live happily in High Point. Employers and their families find ready hospitality awaiting them; employees from other areas find quick and cordial reception. Neighborliness and living comfort are important pillars in keeping High Point's industrial structure strong, and new industries are warmly invited to share that strength and help add to its permanence.

INDUSTRIES—The first furniture factory was established in 1888. There is a wide diversity of manufacturing in High Point. Among these are plants manufacturing overalls, work shirts, men's summer clothing, mattresses, box springs, pillows, veneers, plywoods, art glass, paints, enamels, varnishes lacquers, sealers, stains, fillers, undercoats and reducers, bobbin heads, shuttle blocks, building material, mirrors, glass, furniture and novelties, toys, hosiery transfers, embossed labels and seals, silk and rayon weaving, hosiery and underwear yarns, dyes, chemicals and textile oil specialties, paper boxes, corrugated shipping containers and a variety of other products.

HOSPITALS—High Point has two hospitals with 125 beds; Funds are in hand for contribution of a new hospital.

High Point summarizes all the appeal of North Carolina in progressiveness, residential comfort, industrial opportunity and warmth of welcome to newcomers.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Momentous questions that will provoke impressive and significant answers are facing your chosen profession today. The practice of medicine as we have known it will undoubtedly suffer changes during the next five or ten years. Transformations along lines of increased specialization, alterations in the patient-doctor relationship and modification in the rules and regulations relating to hospital staffs; are among those prognosticated.

Your local, state and national medical societies are the instrumentalities through which you might be heard on these weighty questions. The individual practitioner who does not participate with organized medical groups, is truly isolated from the dynamic forces that are helping to shape the things to come.

MURRAY B. DAVIS, M.D.
President.

THREE MORNINGS—

PHARMACY

One of the oldest of the professions devoted to the physical well-being of mankind is here within these walls rededicated to the high purpose of its conception.

Here shall we proudly serve the people of our community.

Here shall we act as standard bearers for the truly great men of science who, step by step, have added to our store of knowledge in the fight against disease and who, in so doing, replaced despair with hope, hope with assurance and assurance with certainty.

God grant we may prove worthy of the trust.
